I have read to have read and the tractical good variety, but I have never had any to act so prompily, profitably, and needy as Molane's. I have used them myself, wife, and children, with the most graiffying results. For children, having used them on my own with such easy and happy effect, I would recommend them to one and to all. These pills do the work—do it promptly, do it well, and leave no ill effects behind. As a bile remover, as a liver corrector, as a forerunner preparing the system for quilnine, there is no pill or medicine equal to Dr. C. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills. I expect to use them as long as I live, if they continue as good as they have been in the past.

The Association race gathers interest as each week rolls by, and while the St. Louis still hold the lead, it is by such a slight margin that it may disappear with a couple or days' bad luck. Brooklyn has held second piace only through the misfortunes of the Athletics and Pittsburghs, but all three have dropped off in their percentages, the loss being a gain for Louiscentages, the loss being a gain for Louis ville, Baltimore and the Mets. Louisville ville, Battimore and the Mets. Louisville is a strong fith and is playing to-day the best game in the West. She seems to have suppressed her internal dissensions, and if Neal proves an acquisition, will be interesting company for the leaders very shortly. Caylor's pets have wrestled tan hold from the Mets and their cup of bitterness is full. The disabled condition of this undoubtedly strong team merits the sympathy of all the base ball admirers; a club that can play pretty good ball under club that can play pretty good ball unde such circumstances, pursued as it is with the malicious persecutions of the Enquire has a fair future still before it.

SAVING MANURE On Small Farms-Quality to be Desired

Hather than Bulk.
Philadelphia Record. There are hundreds of small farms upor which no cattle are kept, and the matter of making manure is difficult because of lack of material. But as manure depends for its value upon its quality rather than upon its bulk, quite an amount of

than upon its bulk, quite an amount of fertilizing material may be prepared and saved at a small expense for labor. Fine road dirt should be used as an absorbent, and it should be placed where it will be safe from rain or dampness. The best method is to have an old out-house or a shed constructed for the purpose, and about eight inches of dirt shuld be placed upon the floor, which may be of boards, cement, or stiff clay. Upon this layer of road dirt should be thrown all the urine, night soil, refuse of all kinds, pouttry maroad airt snould be thrown all the urine, night soil, reduse of all kinds, poultry manure and scrapings, with another layer of road dirt upon the materials. After several layers have been made the heap hould be kept constantly damp with soapsuds. This should be continued until the entire year's accumulation is one large heap.

In connection with the road dirt a bushel of kainit should be used with every ten bushels of the road dirt. Kainit is composed largely of sulphate of potash, with proportions of magnesia, sait, lime and other substances, all of which are necessary ingredients of plant foods. The value of the kaint does not consist in its fertilizing ingredients only, but also to its power of fixing ammonia, it being superior to plaster for that purpose. It is also a very soluble substance, and is easily a very soluble substance, and is easily appropriated by the plants as soon as it appropriated by the plants as soon as it is applied to the soil.

As kaint is sulphate of potash, it partially becomes decomposed in the fermenting manure (or compost) heap, and arrests the escape of the volatile ammonia by changing it to sulphate of ammonia, while the fat acids of the scapauds also form numercus compounds and hasten the decomposition of the mass. It is not out of place to state that the most valuable. out of place to state that the most valuable constituent of such compost is the urine, which is very rich in nitrogenous matter, and which is usually wasted on many farms. If a pig or a few hens are kept, the manure from them should be added to the heap daily, before the volatile matter begins to escape, which will not only be an advantage but conduce to the health of the pig and poultry. Not an ounce of anything should be wasted that may be serviceable. On light, sandy locations out of place to state that the most valuable serviceable. Such a mode of making manure will at first seem like a slow one, manure will at first seem like a slow one, but at the end of the year surprise will be excited by the appearance of the heap, which will contain sufficient fertilizing matter for a farm of five acres, while the constant daily additions to the heap will induce a thorough cleaning of the grounds, pig-pen, poultry-house and out-house as often as possible.
